Westfield Improves Employee and Customer Satisfaction by Transforming the Claims Workflow

What initially began in 1848 as a company to protect Ohio farmers has grown into one of the nation's leading property and casualty carriers. Despite the dramatic changes that Westfield Insurance has undergone in the last 170 years, it remains committed to an ongoing journey of building better relationships through technical innovation.

Knowing that decreasing claims cycle time dramatically affects the customer experience, the auto casualty and workers' compensation business units within Westfield set their sights on automating the claims workflow. The casualty department focused on predictive analytics, straight-through processing, and the ability to make faster payments to resolve claims more quickly. The transformation led to skyrocketing customer satisfaction scores and beneficial insights into customers' businesses.

For the workers' compensation department, the ultimate goal was to free up time for claims professionals to focus on more complex cases and customers. By developing a method for a high percentage of bills to flow through the review process from start to finish with minimal to no intervention, the team has exceeded their expectations. Self-service claims handling has resulted in accurate straight-through processing capabilities that are expected to help Westfield reach 70 percent of workers' compensation medical bills in the near future. What once took weeks or months is now done substantially faster. Due to the efforts of these process improvement initiatives, claims professionals throughout the entire organization are now spending more of their time where it matters most, with customers.

The Black Car Fund Delivers the Future of Benefits to Independent Workers Today

How do you provide a safety net for over 100,000 workers who are not your employees without their contact information? For nearly two decades, The Black Car Fund (The Fund) has found a way through innovative solutions and remaining relevant with the changing times. In the last few years, The Fund has been a strong advocate for legislation that protects ride-sharing service drivers of companies such as Uber and Lyft

This new market increased its participant base by more than 1,000 percent in approximately five years. Today, The Fund has nearly 400 member bases and collectively, more than 130,000 affiliated drivers covered by workers' compensation. As gig work becomes ever more prevalent, The Fund continues to expand their portable workers' compensation benefits by offering additional wellness and safety services that look after drivers and their families

While there are physical risks associated with being on the road, The Fund recognized that it also takes its toll on psychological well-being. In response to high rates of depression, stress and anxiety and a notable increase in for-hire vehicle driver suicides, The Fund introduced a host of additional benefits to provide drivers with much-needed support. The multi-pronged program was tailored to meet drivers where they are—physically, mentally and in their language. In turn, The Fund covered drivers provide a higher level of safety and service to their riders.

About The Black Car Fund

The New York Black Car Operators' Injury Compensation Fund, known simply as "The Black Car Fund" is a non-profit organization created by New York State statute in 1999 with the purpose of providing Workers' Compensation coverage to Black Car operators in the State of New York. The statute covers all drivers dispatched by The Black Car Fund's Member Bases in the state of New York. The Fund derives its income from a 2.5% passenger surcharge, assessed on top of the fare, which is billed and collected by Member Bases from their clients and then remitted to The Fund. Today, The Fund has over 400 Member Bases and covers more than 140,000 drivers, providing them with Workers' Compensation benefits as well as additional health related benefits that independent contractors throughout the rest of the country traditionally do not receive.
