P&C executive will head company's auto casualty and workers' comp technology division.

SAN DIEGO—Enlyte, the parent brand of Mitchell, Genex and Coventry, has announced today that Steve Laudermilch has joined the company to serve as executive vice president and general manager of Mitchell's casualty solutions group (CSG).

With 25 years of senior leadership experience in workers' compensation and auto casualty claims, Laudermilch will be charged with leading Mitchell's CSG, bringing cutting-edge claims technology and workflow connectivity solutions to the auto casualty and workers' comp markets, while helping restore the lives of injured drivers and employees.

"We're very excited and honored to have Steve Laudermilch join the Enlyte team," said Alex Sun, Enlyte CEO. "Steve is a proven leader who comes to us with a successful track record of delivering results in workers' compensation and auto casualty for global claims organizations. We look forward to him utilizing his extensive experience and knowledge to propel our products and services for years to come."

Prior to joining Enlyte, Laudermilch served as U.S. chief claims officer with Argo Group, a major underwriter of specialty insurance products in the property and casualty market. In this role, he led the technical claims teams for casualty, workers' comp, financial lines, property and programs, and had oversight for claims operations and shared services. Prior to Argo, Laudermilch held key positions at Chubb, a leading property and casualty insurance company, and Deloitte Consulting.

Laudermilch holds an MBA from Saint Joseph's University, Philadelphia, and a BA in economics from Ursinus College, Collegeville, PA.
